SECTION 5. TERMS OF REFERENCE

TERMS OF REFERENCE

Design and conduct a sociological research to pilot the Social Tension Monitoring Mechanism in the Republic of Moldova

Project title: Crisis response Funding Window

Implementation period: June – September 2023

A. Background

Over the last years, the Republic of Moldova had gone through a range of crisis. The COVID-19, the security crisis, the energy crisis and a massive refugee influx. With an overall weak Social Cohesion² that pre-existed in the country, the compound crisis has the potential to further erode social cohesion and increased social tensions. In this context, it is important for the Government of the Republic of Moldova and development partners to have access to information on the trend for increased social tensions in the country, particularly in the context of the compound crisis described above. Understanding the underlying causes and factors driving social tensions can help inform policy and programmatic responses that address the root causes of the tensions and promote social cohesion. Against this background, UNDP Moldova has engaged with SEED (Center for Sustainable Peace and Democratic Development) to develop the concept of a Social Tension Monitoring Mechanism (STMM). The STMM is envisaged to be a modular mechanism to enable measurement of objective as well as perception aspects of social tensions.

The STMM aims to identify the potential for social tensions and civic contentiousness by analysing various factors such as social cohesion, conflict, peacebuilding, psychology, early warning and response tools, polarization, intergroup relations, communication, participation, and activism. It can provide early warning signs and identify drivers of actual contentious activities, enabling stakeholders to take appropriate actions to mitigate and prevent social tensions from escalating. The potential for civic contentiousness refers to the willingness or intention of individuals or groups to participate in various forms of political activities to address their grievances, which can serve as a precursor to actual contentious activities.

STMM can help to identify potential social tensions and drivers of actual contentious activities. The measurement of the potential for civic contentiousness can help to identify the underlying factors that may lead to social tensions, such as relative deprivation or grievances. It is important to note that the potential or intention to participate in contentious activities does not necessarily mean that people will actually do so, but it can serve as an indicator of the presence of social tensions and the potential for mobilization by political entrepreneurs.

1) Scope of services and expected outputs

UNDP Moldova intends to contract a research company (hereinafter “the Company”), to undertake the following sociological research components, which aims to identify the drivers for social tensions in the Republic of Moldova:

Quantitative Component 1.: A household survey with at least 1,200 respondents

- Nation-wide representative sample of at least 1200 individuals for the sociological research, stratified by development regions, sampled representatively based on the latest national statistics with gender and age quotas. The study shall cover the adult population for the entire territory of the Republic of Moldova, except Transnistria. Sample should represent regions, rural and urban population.

- Boosters with a relevant representative sample from 10 rayons (60 from each): Ocnita, Donduseni, Chisinau, Orhei, Causeni, Stefan Voda, Basarabeasca, UTA Gagauzia, Cahul, Taraclia.

Qualitative Component 2.: 10 focus groups with local stakeholders to interpret and validate the findings in a participatory way in the aforementioned rayons.

The Company will undertake the following tasks:

- Get familiarized with the Concept of the Social Tension Monitoring Mechanism (STMM) and the measurement model as part of the concept, prepared by SeeD for UNDP Moldova. This shall be done under the guidance of SeeD team and UNDP Moldova Effective Governance Cluster Lead. This would involve a 1-3 of online or hybrid workshops to present and discuss the tool developed for STMM
- Adjust the measurement metrics of the STMM for both components (quantitative and qualitative) to the local context (to be done also under the guidance of SeeD) via workshops and consultations and via the questionnaire pilot report.
- Translate the STMM components into Moldovan/Romanian and Russian and confirm the translations via parallel readings to ensure all concepts and terminologies are identical.
- Organise an enumerator training workshop where all enumerators and team leads run through the randomisation approach and the questionnaire together, clarify interview notes and instructions, approaches, and address concerns to ensure a standard administration of the research component. SeeD team should be invited to the enumerator training. Only the enumerators certified through this training should be deployed.
- Conduct a pilot of the questionnaire with 25 respondents and produce a pilot report that presents: minimum/maximum duration, average duration, refusal rate, questions that were not clear, questions that triggered a negative reaction, questions that have a high number of DK/NR responses.
- Conduct component 1 to identify the drivers of social tensions based on the final version of the QNR following the pilot. The research shall be focused on data collection and its analysis through the prism of the assumptions on social tension drivers elaborated within the concept of the Social Tension Monitoring Mechanism.
- Work with SeeD after 25% of the sample is collected to create the syntax and prepare for data analysis.
- Analyse the results: The following analysis methods would be deployed. The Company will be mentored and supported by SeeD when conducting the analysis but this will not include a statistical or software training. Thus the Company should ensure that they have the necessary statistical and analytical skills and competencies in SPSS, STATA, R+ or other appropriate software.
 - Frequency analysis, factor analysis, reliability tests, scaling, syntax creation, conduct ANOVA/MANOVA and other disaggregation, linear regression, moderation analysis, SEM modelling
 - Visualise the results in a presentation in a digestible and comprehensive way. SeeD will provide feedback to help finalise the analysis presentations.
- Conduct component 2 in close liaison with SeeD. SeeD will prepare the focus group guidelines and the discussion flow for the focus groups. The Company will translate these guidelines (2 pages) into Moldovan/Romanian and Russian languages and organise a workshop with experienced facilitators to review and run through with SeeD's support. Organise 10 focus groups with representatives of local public authorities (e.g. municipal workers), service delivery entities (e.g. teachers, health workers, social workers) and public order authorities (e.g. police, prosecutors, judges) to triangulate the data collected at the national level with the perceptions and views of local actors from the following rayons: Ocnita, Donduseni, Chisinau, Orhei, Causeni, StefanVoda, Basarabeasca, UTA Gagauzia, Cahul, Taraclia. These focus groups would be 2-3 hours long where the findings are presented, discussed and interpreted collectively. These focus groups would also include presentation of the STMM and its next steps by SeeD. Keep detailed minutes of the focus groups but no transcripts are necessary.
- Prepare a detailed narrative report of the sociological research results, including the summary of findings, qualitative and quantitative.

Research subjects:

The sociological study shall be focused on the following general topics:

- Measure the Individual resources or the objective resources of human capital like age, education, income, civic skills and cognitive individual resources like interest in politics and internal political efficacy;

- Asses the grievances and relative deprivations of the population that can serve as drivers for social tension;
- Assessment of the potential for collective actions of certain groups;
- Perceptions over the political opportunities;
- Assessment of the potential trigger events, accelerators and de-accelerators for social tensions.
