37. Post-qualification/ Due Diligence	UNDP reserves the right to undertake a post-qualification assessment, aimed at determining, to its satisfaction, the validity of the information provided by the proposer. Such exercise shall be fully documented and may include, but need not be limited to, all or any combination of the following: a) Verification of accuracy, correctness and authenticity of information provided by the proposer; b) Validation of extent of compliance to the RFP requirements and evaluation criteria based on what has so far been found by the evaluation team; c) Inquiry and reference checking with Government entities with jurisdiction on the proposer, or with previous clients, or any other entity that may have done business with the proposer; d) Inquiry and reference checking with previous clients on the performance on on-going or completed contracts, including physical inspections of previous works, as deemed necessary; e) Physical inspection of the proposer's offices, branches or other places where business transpires, with or without notice to the proposer; f) Other means that UNDP may deem appropriate, at any stage within the selection process, prior to awarding the contract.
38. Clarification of proposals	UNDP may request clarification or further information in writing from the proposers at any time during the evaluation process. The proposers' responses shall not contain any changes regarding the substance or price of the proposal, except to confirm the correction of arithmetic errors discovered by UNDP in the evaluation of the proposals, in accordance with Instructions to Proposers Article 23 (Errors or omissions).

	UNDP may use such information in interpreting and evaluating the relevant proposal but is under no obligation to take it into account. Any unsolicited clarification submitted by a proposer in respect to its proposal which is not a response to a request by UNDP, shall not be considered during the review and evaluation of the proposals.
39. Responsiveness of proposal	UNDP's determination of a proposal's responsiveness is to be based on the contents of the proposal itself. A substantially responsive proposal is one that conforms to all the terms, conditions, TOR and other requirements of the RFP without material deviation, reservation, or omission. A material deviation, reservation, or omission is one that: a) affects in any substantial way the scope, quality, or performance of the services specified in the contract; or b) limits in any substantial way, inconsistent with the solicitation documents, UNDP's rights or the proposer's obligations under the contract; or c) if rectified would unfairly affect the competitive position of other proposers presenting substantially responsive proposals. If a proposal is not substantially responsive, it shall be rejected by UNDP and may not subsequently be made responsive by the proposer by correction of the material deviation, reservation, or omission.
40. Nonconformities, reparable errors and omission	Provided that a proposal is substantially responsive, UNDP may waive any non-conformities or omissions in the proposal that, in the opinion of UNDP, do not constitute a material deviation. These are a matter of form and not of substance and can be corrected or waived without being prejudicial to other proposers. Provided that a proposal is substantially responsive UNDP may request the proposer to submit the necessary information or documentation, within a reasonable period, to rectify nonmaterial nonconformities or omissions in the proposal related to documentation requirements. Such omission shall not be related to any aspect of the price of the proposal. Failure of the proposer to comply with the request may result in the rejection of its proposal. For financial proposals that have been opened, UNDP shall check, and correct arithmetical errors as follows: a) if there is a discrepancy between the unit price and the line-item total that is obtained by multiplying the unit price by the quantity, the unit price shall prevail and the line-item total shall be corrected, unless in the opinion of UNDP there is an obvious misplacement of the decimal point in the unit price; in which case, the line item total as quoted shall govern and the unit price shall be corrected; b) if there is an error in a total corresponding to the addition or subtraction of subtotals, the subtotals shall prevail, and the total shall be corrected; and c) if there is a discrepancy between words and figures, the amount in words shall prevail, unless the amount expressed in words is related to an arithmetic error, in which case the amount in figures shall prevail. If the proposer does not accept the correction of errors, its proposal shall be rejected, and its proposal security may be forfeited.
41. Right to accept any proposal and to reject any or all proposals	UNDP reserves the right to accept or reject any proposals, and to annul the proposal process and reject all proposals at any time prior to contract award, without thereby incurring any liability to the affected proposer or proposers or any obligation to inform the affected proposer or proposers of the grounds for UNDP's action. The content of other proposals and how they compare to the proposer's submission shall not be discussed.

SECTION 5. TERMS OF REFERENCE

Company/NGO for Capacity Building on EPR Implementation for the Ministry of Environment and Environmental Institutions in Moldova

a. Background Information and Rationale, Project Description

On 23rd of June 2022, the European Council granted the Republic of Moldova the status of EU candidate country which is a substantial achievement, but which comes with great responsibilities and obligations. One of such obligation is the “Green Agenda and Sustainable Connectivity” which includes Chapters of the environment and climate change acquis. In this sense, meaningful reform is expected in view of European Green Deal targets.

The Green Transition Project takes due account of this endeavor. Hence, it will put in place the enabling conditions for a green transformation in Moldova through a combination of cross-sectorial decision-making in joint stakeholder platforms, capacity building measures, general education and awareness raising, dissemination of best policy practices, information sharing and networking, as well as pilot-testing green-transition related solutions and other activities, to ensure that the green transition concept is well understood and implemented.

The established enabling conditions and the investments into green-transition solutions will respond to the key development challenges that the country is currently dealing with such as climate change, environmental pollution, and the energy crisis.

It is well acknowledged that Moldova is highly vulnerable to climate change, given the limited resources and institutional capacities to address the climate change impacts. It is also due to the heavy reliance on the agricultural sector, water scarcity and other geographical factors. Currently the country is advancing with the national adaptation planning, including in the agricultural sector, aimed at putting in place proper intuitional, technical, and budgeting capacities in the context of climate change, however significant gaps remain in embarking of the sectors into achievement of the long-term adaptation targets.

Environmental degradation is also posing a major threat to Moldova’s development agenda as its economy relies greatly on natural resources which leads to their overexploitation and pollution. Inadequate waste management practices and outdated practices and technologies in the key sectors of the economy also contribute to environmental degradation and pollution. Mainstreaming of the green agenda into the country’s economic activities is taking place slowly.

Moldova is in line with the global trend of continuously growing urbanization, with the proportion of the population living in urban areas expected to rise from 47% in 2010 to 60% in 2030 (UN Habitat). Cities are increasingly and significantly contributing to the main drivers of global environmental degradation. The municipalities have the greatest impact on air quality and are responsible for more than 50% of total air pollution in Moldova.

From energy security perspective – Moldova is highly dependent on imported energy sources and rely mostly on the use of fossil fuels. In addition, inefficient energy supply and consumption across all sectors exacerbates the situation. Until recently being 100% dependent on Russian gas import, the country is actively seeking diversification of energy supplies after the war of aggression in Ukraine. Improvements both in energy efficiency and in the development of domestic resources – including renewable energy resources – for strengthened sustainability, competitiveness, and energy security rank high on the political agenda. Energy sector and also the main source of GHG emissions in the country.

Against this background, the Green Transition Project aims to support the Government of Moldova to engage sustainably in a transformative green agenda by enhancing awareness, building capacities, and encouraging investments into low-emission and resource efficient economy. The implementation period of the project is 48 months, and the total budget is 10 mln EUR.

The target areas of the project are resource efficiency, green and circular economy, cleaner and sustainable energy, and mobility.

The Project is be implemented under the following three specific components:

1. Socio-economic framework for a gender-responsive and inclusive green transition enabled.
2. Capacity and awareness on the inclusive green transition increased among key stakeholders.
3. Additional funding attracted by promoting and piloting investments in green and innovative technologies, while evidence-based decision-making for green transition is improved by deploying a reliable air quality monitoring system.

Specific objectives of the project related to waste management and circular economy are:

- promote green transition by establishing sound alliances with EU platforms and international organizations supporting the green transition, while building formal partnerships among relevant public institutions, sectors etc. and setting-up efficient coordination mechanisms, ensuring inclusive participation and balanced representation of men and women.
- develop policy instruments and other measures to accelerate the EU accession process.
- explore the gaps and opportunities in the context of the EU Green Deal (EGD) for Moldova to enable the design of smart regulatory frameworks, essential in promoting circular economy as one of the key driver of the green transformation.
- implement EPR mechanism for managing specific waste streams (packaging, WEEE, batteries, used oils etc) and providing clear distribution of roles among the competent authorities and the business sector. The project will facilitate engagement between the LPAs and the private sector entities interested to be part of the EPR approach in order to establish collaborative approached towards the integrated waste management system in the respective WMZs.
- develop waste related business models for specific waste streams (e.g. textile, plastic, construction and demolition wastes), and provide analytical support to the establishment of a secondary raw material waste market.
- To establish points for recycling accompanied by relevant incentivizing schemes; introducing digital information systems on specific waste streams collection and treatment; and other initiatives related to waste reuse, recovery and recycling.

Moldova has committed to advance the green development agenda and to deliver transformative reforms as part of the EU candidacy effort. The Association Agreement with the European Union is expressly aimed at ensuring sustainable development and promoting the green economy. By signing the Agreement, the Republic of Moldova undertakes to harmonise national legislation with European legislation and to ensure the integration of environmental protection, rational use of resources and energy efficiency, eco-labelling, eco-innovations in all sectors of the national economy and social life.

The Ministry of Environment develops and promotes Moldova's state policy on environmental protection and rational use of natural resources, oriented toward creating conditions beneficial for life, the country's sustainable development, the approximation of national legislation to the European Union. MoEnv aims to align its environmental and climate policy with the objectives of the European Green Deal to enable Moldova's green transition.

The environment protection sector is one of the top priorities for the Government and it is addressed in Government's Plans and a number of policy documents, laws and regulations. In accordance with the Environment Strategy for the 2024-2030 years, the Government aims to guarantee safe conditions for environment and life nationally, according to the European environmental goals.

Waste is one of the main sources of environmental pollution in Moldova. According to the data of the National Statistical Office, Moldova produces about 3 million cubic meters of waste from households and commercial activities. The selective waste collection is partially organized only in Chişinău and in some county centers. According to the Environmental Protection Inspectorate, only 10 percent of this waste is sorted and recycled; the rest is dumped in nearly 1,100 landfills. This waste will never be the subject of any sorting or processing. The recyclable waste is thrown together with the non-recyclable waste. This means that plastic, glass, metal and organic household waste will remain in the ground forever, causing environmental and human health damage.

The Law No. 209/2016 on Waste Management transposes the provisions of the European Union's Waste Framework Directive 2008/98/EC, which is mentioned in the Association Agreement between the Republic of Moldova and the European Union. The Republic of Moldova is committed to improving the waste management process by implementing an integrated waste management system. Chapter 16 - "Environment", sub-chapter "Management of waste and resources" stipulates the establishment of the mechanism of full cost recovery in accordance with the "polluter pays principle" and the "extended principle of producer responsibility (EPR)" within 4 years of entry into force, i.e. from 2018.

The priorities and actions in the field of waste management at the national level are included in the Strategy for Waste Management in the Republic of Moldova 2013-2027 and the National Waste Management Program for 2023-2027, which aims to reduce the amount of waste generated and to strengthen the infrastructure and public awareness in this field. Increase the rate of recovery and recycling of products (especially those subject to extended producer responsibility schemes) by up to 60%.

In order to achieve these goals, six regulations on the operationalization of the EPR mechanisms were established by law developed and adopted so far:

- Regulation on Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE), GD 212/07.03.2018 - regulates the categories of waste electrical and electronic equipment in order to prevent or reduce their impact on the environment and human health. The Regulation establishes health protection requirements for all parties involved in the life cycle of electrical and electronic equipment, such as producers, importers, distributors, consumers and economic operators directly involved in the collection, treatment, recycling, recovery and clean disposal of WEEE.
- Regulation on Packaging and Packaging Waste, GD 561/31.07.2020 - regulates the management of packaging and packaging waste in order to prevent or reduce its impact on the environment, to ensure a high level of environmental protection, to ensure the functioning of the market and to avoid barriers to trade and distortions or restrictions of competition. The Regulation sets out priority measures to prevent the generation of packaging waste and the principles for reducing the final disposal of packaging waste through reuse, recycling and recovery.
- Regulation on Handling Batteries and Accumulators, Waste Batteries and Accumulators, GD 586/2020 - regulates the categories of waste batteries and accumulators, and establishes requirements to protect the health of all those involved in the life cycle of batteries and accumulators, such as producers, importers, distributors, consumers and economic operators directly involved in the collection, treatment, recycling, recovery and clean disposal of waste batteries and accumulators, by preventing or reducing the negative impacts of waste generation and management, including by improving the efficiency of their use.
- Regulation on the management of used oils, GD 731/26.10.2022 - establishes the requirements for the proper environmental management of waste oils generated at the national level, through the application of the extended producer responsibility system, in accordance with the provisions of Art. 12 and 52 of Law No.

209/2016 on Waste. The purpose of the regulation is to ensure the collection of used oils and their subsequent treatment without risk to human health and the environment, the operation of an ecological system for the management and control of waste oil treatment and transport activities, and the prevention and limitation of air, water and soil pollution and the limitation of risks to human health as a result of the treatment and transport of used oils.

- Regulation on the management of used tires, GD 610/01.09.2022 - establishes a set of requirements for the collection, reuse and energy recovery or recycling of used tires. Manufacturers, distributors, consumers and economic operators involved in the management of used tires must take the measures provided for in the Regulation to optimize the separate collection of used tires. According to the regulation, both individuals and legal entities are obliged to deliver used tires to authorized collection points. Burial and abandonment of tires are prohibited.
- Regulation on the management of used vehicles, GD 93/28.02.2023 - establishes a set of requirements for the reuse of metals and automotive components, the recovery of end-of-life vehicle parts, and the stimulation of a closed-cycle economy. All related activities will be borne by manufacturers and importers and will be implemented in two stages. Thus, by January 1, 2025, economic operators must ensure the reuse and recovery of 85% of the average weight of all end-of-life vehicles, and by January 1, 2028, this figure should rise to 95%. Specifically, a network for the collection/recycling of end-of-life vehicles will be established and the reuse and recycling of vehicle materials and components will be expanded.

All six Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR) regulations referenced above were recently revised and updated with the support of the Green Transition Project. As a result of these changes, it is imperative that companies receive comprehensive information and targeted training on the practical aspects of EPR implementation. Businesses are now navigating a more complex set of legal and operational requirements, which necessitate specialized knowledge and a clear understanding of their obligations. Failure to comply with the revised regulations may expose companies to financial penalties, reputational risks, and loss of competitiveness in the market. Producer Responsibility Organizations (PROs) play a central role in the effective implementation of Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR) schemes. As collective entities mandated to fulfil the legal obligations of producers, PROs act as intermediaries between producers, recyclers, waste operators, and public authorities. Their core mission is to ensure that the environmental responsibilities of producers are met in a coordinated, cost-efficient, and transparent manner. In the Moldovan context, where the EPR system is still evolving, PROs are essential for building the infrastructure and institutional capacity needed to manage various waste streams effectively—particularly complex ones like packaging, WEEE, batteries, and end-of-life vehicles. Their ability to aggregate resources and expertise makes EPR implementation more efficient and scalable for producers, especially small and medium-sized enterprises.

To ensure effective oversight of Producer Responsibility Organizations (PROs) and verify the accuracy of the data they report to the Environmental Agency, it is essential to conduct targeted studies and research on specific waste streams, such as waste electrical and electronic equipment (WEEE) and packaging. These studies aim to provide a clear understanding of the quantities of products placed on the market and the actual rates of waste collection and recycling. Based on the findings, Moldova will be able to reassess and adjust its annual collection and recycling targets, ensuring they reflect the real performance of the system and support continuous improvement.

b. Specific Objectives of the assignment and scope

The primary objective of this assignment is to strengthen the capacity of environmental institutions in Moldova, including Producer Responsibility Organizations (PROs), companies, and other relevant stakeholders, to ensure the effective implementation of the Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR) scheme. In addition, the contractor (Company/NGO) will carry out two studies on the management of waste electrical and electronic equipment (WEEE) and packaging waste in Moldova. In cooperation with a national consultant, the contractor will also support the Ministry of the Environment (MoEnv) in drafting a regulation on the management of construction and demolition waste, as well as in conceptualizing an EPR scheme for these specific waste streams.

The selected company/organization will be responsible for implementing the following activities:

1. Provide the UNDP Green Transition project team with up-to-date information on recent developments in EU legislation related to EPR, as well as relevant good practices and examples of functioning EPR schemes across EU Member States. Additionally, the company is expected to support the revision of national targets for various waste streams, including packaging, WEEE, batteries, tires, used oil, and end-of-life vehicles, thereby contributing to the alignment of Moldova's waste management system with EU directives and ensuring more effective monitoring and achievement of recycling and recovery objectives.
2. In collaboration with the national consultant, draft the regulation on the management of construction and demolition waste and support the Ministry of Environment in initiating dialogue with representatives of the construction industry. This will include participating in a dedicated event organized by the Ministry, during which the concept of a new EPR regulation for construction and demolition waste will be presented and discussed. The company/NGO is expected to take an active role in presenting the concept and leading the Q&A session, providing explanations based on best practices and experiences from EU Member States.
3. To analyze and present the experience of EU Member States with regard to the application of Value-Added Tax (VAT) to EPR-related services. The objective is to explore how VAT is applied to EPR contributions and services such as collection, sorting, recycling, and waste treatment, which are typically financed by producers through Producer Responsibility Organizations (PROs). The contractor will examine diverse models adopted across the EU, highlighting legal interpretations, tax administration practices, and any relevant court rulings or European Commission guidance. This will include an in-depth analysis of EU practices concerning fiscal facilities related to EPR, such as preferential VAT regimes, exemptions, and other tax incentives aimed at encouraging environmentally responsible behavior by producers and promoting investment in waste management infrastructure. The analysis will identify how different Member States use fiscal instruments to support EPR schemes, whether through reduced VAT rates for specific services, zero-rating of intra-EPR transactions, or other targeted mechanisms that enhance the financial viability and environmental impact of EPR systems.

Key focus areas will include:

- Whether EPR fees are treated as taxable supplies or cost-sharing mechanisms;
- The VAT treatment of transactions between producers and PROs;
- VAT exemptions or reduced rates, where applicable, for certain waste management services;
- Fiscal facilities, such as tax incentives or deductions, that support EPR implementation and compliance;
- Implications for PROs' financial reporting and producers' VAT obligations.

Based on this comparative analysis, the contractor will formulate practical and context-relevant proposals for aligning Moldova's national tax and waste legislation with EU standards. These proposals should ensure clarity, consistency, and legal certainty in the application of VAT to EPR services and minimize the risk of double taxation or misinterpretation by both authorities and economic operators.

4. To conduct a comprehensive study on the management of waste electrical and electronic equipment (WEEE) and waste batteries and accumulators in the Republic of Moldova. The primary objective of this study is to assess the quantity of electrical and electronic equipment (EEE) and batteries placed on the national market and to evaluate the actual rates of waste collection, recovery, and recycling.

The results of the study will inform the revision of annual collection and recycling targets for each relevant waste category, with a particular focus on WEEE. This will contribute to aligning Moldova's waste management system with EU requirements and improving overall EPR performance. The study should include, but is not limited to, the following elements:

- Overview of the EU and national regulatory frameworks for WEEE and waste batteries and accumulators;
- Quantitative analysis of EEE, batteries, and accumulators placed on the market at the national level, including import, export, and local manufacturing data;
- Assessment of reported data on WEEE and battery waste generation, collection, and recovery;

- Evaluation of the amount of waste collected and recycled through the EPR scheme;
- Key findings and recommendations to enhance the effectiveness of WEEE and battery waste management;
- Examples of circular economy business models and good practices from EU Member States and other relevant contexts.

This study will provide critical insights for decision-makers and stakeholders to improve the design and implementation of EPR systems and ensure compliance with EU environmental and circular economy objectives.

5. To conduct a comprehensive study on the management of packaging waste in the Republic of Moldova. The main objective of this study is to assess the quantity of packaging materials placed on the national market and to evaluate the actual rates of packaging waste collection, recovery, and recycling. Based on the findings, the annual collection and recycling targets for packaging waste will be reviewed and adjusted to reflect the real performance of the system and to align with EU requirements. The study should include, but is not limited to, the following elements:

- Overview of the EU and national regulatory frameworks governing packaging waste management;
- Quantitative analysis of packaging materials placed on the market, including data on imports, exports, and local production;
- Assessment of reported packaging waste data, including generation, collection, and recovery figures;
- Evaluation of the quantity of packaging waste collected and recycled through the EPR scheme;
- Key findings and recommendations to improve packaging waste management and compliance with EPR obligations;
- Examples of circular economy business models and good practices from EU Member States and other relevant contexts.

This study will provide essential insights to support evidence-based policymaking and strengthen Moldova's efforts to improve packaging waste management in line with circular economy principles.

6. Participation in consultation meetings and public presentations organized by the Ministry of Environment with key stakeholders and document key discussions, outcomes and recommendations:
 - participate in one round of consultations with the private sector, providing relevant information on best practices and experiences from EU Member States in the implementation of Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR) schemes. During this consultation, the company/NGO will present key insights tailored to the Moldovan context, clarify regulatory expectations, and illustrate practical approaches to compliance. The company/NGO will also lead the Q&A session, addressing questions from participants and offering expert guidance to support the private sector's understanding and effective engagement in the EPR system.
 - participate in the public presentation of the main findings and recommendations from the studies on the management of waste electrical and electronic equipment (WEEE), batteries and accumulators, and packaging waste. The company/NGO will contribute to the preparation of presentation materials and actively participate in delivering the results to stakeholders, including public authorities, the private sector, civil society, and development partners. The presentation will highlight key data, challenges, and actionable recommendations, and will serve as a platform for dialogue, feedback, and promoting alignment with EU practices in EPR implementation.
 - Conduct consultation meetings with all relevant institutions (e.g. Environmental Agency, Environmental Protection Inspectorate, Ministry of Environment) to assess capacity-building needs related to the implementation and enforcement of the legal provisions under the EPR regulations. These consultations will also evaluate the institutional ability to monitor and control the functioning of the EPR scheme and identify areas where technical support, training, or procedural improvements are required.
7. Based on the identified capacity-building needs, develop a draft Concept Note on strengthening institutional capacity for the implementation and enforcement of the legal provisions of the EPR regulations and the control measures for the EPR scheme. The Concept Note should outline priority areas for training, technical assistance, and procedural improvements, tailored to the needs of key institutions such as the Environmental Agency,

Environmental Protection Inspectorate, and the Ministry of Environment. The draft will be developed in close coordination with the project team and the Ministry of Environment to ensure that all identified needs are comprehensively addressed and aligned with national priorities and EU best practices.

8. Based on the agreed Concept, develop the agenda and informative materials (e.g., PowerPoint presentations, handouts) for a three-day in-person training event to be held in Chişinău, Republic of Moldova. The training will be delivered to key Moldovan stakeholders involved in the implementation and oversight of the EPR scheme, including representatives from the Ministry of Environment, Environmental Agency, Environmental Protection Inspectorate, and other relevant institutions. The content of the training materials will be grounded in best practices and lessons learned from EU Member States, ensuring practical relevance and alignment with European standards. The company/NGO will be responsible for delivering the training sessions, facilitating discussions, and responding to participants' questions to strengthen institutional understanding and capacity for EPR enforcement and compliance.
